// Arable land and nature

A herd of Bonsmara cows graze the nature reserve belonging to the Klein Tafelberg farm and, in doing so, help to maintain this area comprising 1000 hectares, including the impressive 'Klein Tafelberg' (Little Table Mountain).

// Organic products

The core business of Klein Tafelberg farm is producing organic products. Red and yellow onions, shallots, garlic and butternuts are cultivated organically. In South Africa, fresh organic onions are available from February to July. In the Netherlands, the season is exactly the opposite. In that period, there is a demand of fresh organic onions. Klein Tafelberg organic farm fills that gap through exporting their organic onions to Europe.

The products of Klein Tafelberg farm are organic certified according to European standards. In order to grow high quality products, the arable section has drips or pivots for the water supply.

// Real Bonsmaras

The farm cultivates also forage crop for the beef cattle. The herd of Bonsmara beef cattle ensure that the nature reserve is well grazed. The meat from these cows is very popular locally.

The arable land totals 700 hectares. The organic products such as onions, shallots, garlic and butternuts are cultivated. Another part of the land is used for forage crop for the beef cattle and organic products for the local market.

// Local culture practices

Many of the activities at Klein Tafelberg farm are carried out manually by the local people who live on the farm. In the coming years, mechanisation and efficient working methods will receive appropriate attention.

The farm has a shop and a vegetable garden for the local employees. Now and then the employees receive a lift to the village so that they can do their shopping. This is part of the farm's duty of care. In addition, Klein Tafelberg farm supports regional child care and schooling.

// Surrounding: magnificent location

Klein Tafelberg farm is located 1.5 hours from Cape Town in the vicinity of the South African wine region. From Klein Tafelberg mountain (Little Table mountain) the view of the Atlantic Ocean is magnificent. The famous Cederberg mountains are also close by.
